Purpose of this Directory

This directory provides a general summary of external, publicly available, regularly updated data sources and reports that may be useful for Nebraska Children-related work with community partners, funders, or internally. One-time issue briefs or reports are not included in this directory. Furthermore, detailed information on each data source is not provided. The directory is intentionally broad so that the reader can self-determine which specific sources they want to further research based on their needs. The list is by no means exhaustive, and sources will be added as they are discovered.

How the Directory is organized

The directory is organized alphabetically by the name of the data source. Each listing follows a standard template, with not applicable categories indicated as needed.

Adoption and Foster Care Analysis and Reporting System (AFCARS)

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Children’s Bureau

How to Access Source: <http://ndacan.cornell.edu>

1. Click on datasets tab.
2. Near the top of the screen, there are three links for AFCARS: Foster Care, Adoption, and 6-month file. Select the type of file you would like to download (see descriptions below).
3. Select the year of file.
4. After you have selected your dataset, click on the “Order Dataset” link, and follow the instructions to register and download the dataset.

Source Summary: The Adoption and Foster Care Analysis and Reporting System (AFCARS) includes information on all children in foster care and children who have been adopted through state child welfare agencies. States are federally mandated to submit data to AFCARS. However, the quality of data will vary from state to state. Topics include demographic information on children and caretakers, removal and discharge reasons, dates of entry into care and exit from care, and placement settings, among others. Separate data files for foster care and adoption are available for each fiscal year. Records do not currently include unique identifiers that enable linkages across years.

Suggested Citation: U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, Administration for Children & Families, Children’s Bureau (year of dataset). Adoption and Foster Care Analysis and Reporting System (AFCARS). Dataset obtained from <http://ndacan.cornell.edu>.

DATA SOURCE DETAILS

Geographic Scope	Population of Focus	Type of Data	Update Frequency
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Nation <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> State <input type="checkbox"/> County <input type="checkbox"/> Other	Youth in foster care and youth who are adopted nationwide.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Customizable data <input type="checkbox"/> Static report <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Raw dataset	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Annually <input type="checkbox"/> Bi-annually <input type="checkbox"/> Sporadically

- What is the format of the report? Dataset available for download (fairly straightforward to analyze using any statistical software).
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Yes, dataset will allow for a wide array of customizations.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Can be used to determine basic information on youth in foster care (demographics, setting, etc.). Can also be used to assess how long children are in foster care before being adopted.

American Community Survey Narrative Profiles

U.S. Census Bureau

How to Access Source: <https://www.census.gov/acs/www/data/data-tables-and-tools/narrative-profiles/>

Source Summary: Data and narrative profiles based on American Community Survey 5-Year estimates. Includes a broad array of “census-type” data including basic demographics, housing, employment, income, poverty, household and family data, education, insurance coverage, and other similar areas. Data are accessed via a web-based platform. This is an easier way to access the most commonly used Census data as compared to American FactFinder, but has less available data and may be less current than what can be obtained through American FactFinder.

Suggested Citation: U.S. Census Bureau (year of data). American Community Survey 5-Year Estimates. Retrieved from <https://www.census.gov/acs/www/data/data-tables-and-tools/narrative-profiles/>.

DATA SOURCE DETAILS

Geographic Scope	Population of Focus	Type of Data	Update Frequency
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Nation <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> State <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> County <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Other: city, census tract, zip code, national congressional district, among other options	All people living in the U.S.	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Customizable data <input type="checkbox"/> Static report <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Raw dataset	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Annually <input type="checkbox"/> Bi-annually <input type="checkbox"/> Sporadically

- Additional notes on geographic scope: Data are available by nation, state, county, and other categories (including city, census tract, zip code, national congressional district, and other options). There may be some limitations on the data available for less populated areas. Data are survey estimates, and therefore are more reliable for larger populated areas.
- What is the format of the report? Data tables with some narrative are obtained online via a web-based platform.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Data are provided for an array of customizable geographic regions. American FactFinder is recommended if data on specific populations (racial/ethnic groups, age groups, etc.) are needed.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Broad demographic data on the entire U.S. population.

Behavioral Health Workforce Reports

University of Nebraska Medical Center, Behavioral Health Education Center of Nebraska (BHECN)

How to Access Source: <https://www.unmc.edu/bhecn/workforce/workforce-reports.html>

Source Summary: Reports on the geographic distribution and demographic characteristics of actively practicing behavioral health providers in Nebraska. Reports are available by profession and behavioral health region. The reports also contain data by each county. The site also has reports that BHECN provides to the legislature, reports on telehealth, and a behavioral health workforce dashboard.

Suggested Citation: University of Nebraska Medical Center, Behavioral Health Education Center of Nebraska (year of data). Nebraska Behavioral Health Workforce Reports.

<input type="checkbox"/> Nation <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> State <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> County <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Other: Behavioral health region	Behavioral health workforce	<input type="checkbox"/> Customizable data <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Static report <input type="checkbox"/> Raw dataset	<input type="checkbox"/> Annually <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Bi-annually <input type="checkbox"/> Sporadically

- Additional notes on geographic scope: There are six behavioral health regions in Nebraska.
- What is the format of the report? PDF reports available for download.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? No, but each report contains a wide array of data, much of which is reported at the county-level.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? The availability of behavioral health professionals and services across the state of Nebraska.

Census Data

U.S. Census Bureau

How to Access Source: <https://data.census.gov/> (select “Advanced Search”)

Source Summary: This is the recommended source of Census data for most Nebraska Children purposes. A broad array of data from the Decennial Census (every 10 years), American Community Survey (every year), and other U.S. Census Surveys. Broad topics include basic demographics, housing, employment, income, poverty, household and family data, education, insurance coverage, and other similar areas. Data are accessed via a web-based platform using specific or general searches.

Suggested Citation: U.S. Census Bureau (year of data). American Community Survey 5-Year Estimates. Retrieved from <https://data.census.gov>.

- Additional notes on geographic scope: Data are available by nation, state, county, and other categories (including city, census tract, zip code, national congressional district, and other options). There may be some limitations on the data available for less populated areas. Data are survey estimates, and therefore are more reliable for more populated areas.
- What is the format of the report? Data tables are obtained online via a web-based platform.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Yes, data can be customized by geographic region, race/ethnicity, age, sex, and other variables by selecting different population characteristics. Certain data tables will have age and/or gender breakdowns as part of their basic format. Geographic and race/ethnic groups can be selected.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Broad demographic data on the entire U.S. population.

Child Maltreatment Report

U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, Administration for Children & Families, Children’s Bureau

How to Access Source: <https://www.acf.hhs.gov/cb/research-data-technology/statistics-research/child-maltreatment>

Source Summary: Annual report focusing on nationwide issues related to child maltreatment. Each section of the report contains extensive data on child maltreatment by each state, and includes data related to the victims of child maltreatment, perpetrators, foster care, sex trafficking, and other such data.

Suggested Citation: U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, Administration for Children & Families, Children’s Bureau (year of data). Child Maltreatment.

Retrieved from <https://www.acf.hhs.gov/cb/research-data-technology/statistics-research/child-maltreatment>.

- What is the format of the report? Written report (PDF).
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? No. State-level data are limited to what is provided in within the tables of each section of the report.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Child maltreatment.

Community Opportunity Maps

Casey Family Programs

How to Access Source:

Community Opportunity Map: <https://www.neopportunitymap.org/>

National Community Opportunity Map: <https://www.casey.org/community-opportunity-map/>

Source Summary: An interactive map that allows for the selection of U.S. Census data at the county, city/town, and zip code levels. The different map views can be very useful when comparing different areas within a community (e.g., comparing poverty rates at different zip codes within a city). For each selected community/area, indicators are available in the areas of housing, children and adults, education and economic indicators, and demographic characteristics. The two different maps (Nebraska and Nationwide) present many of the same/similar data indicators. However, there are some differences in the indicators that are used between the two maps.

Suggested Citation: Casey Family Programs (year of data). The Community Opportunity Map.

Retrieved from <https://www.neopportunitymap.org/>.

- What is the format of the report? Interactive map.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? This source is customizable to the extent that it provides data as low as the zip code level and allows for easy comparisons from area to area.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Locating areas of need and opportunities for community investment.

Community Services Management Information System (CS-MIS)

University of Nebraska – Lincoln Center on Children, Families, and the Law

How to Access Source: <https://ccfl.unl.edu/community-services-management/reports>

Source Summary: Contains brief annual reports on the homeless population in Lincoln and the “balance of the state”. Types of reports include point-in-time counts, housing inventory, and system performance. The Annual Homeless Assessment Report also contains data for Omaha in addition to Lincoln and the balance of the state. The reports provide basic counts of the homeless population, including sheltered and unsheltered individuals. For the same type of homeless data in just the Omaha/Council Bluffs area, see the Institute for Community Alliances (page 14 in this directory).

Suggested Citation: Institute for Community Alliances (year of data). [Name of specific report]. Retrieved from <https://ccfl.unl.edu/community-services-management/reports>.

- What is the format of the report? Data are retrieved on the interactive website. Summary reports and Excel workbooks containing all of the data indicators can be downloaded.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? It is easy to navigate between counties and compare data. However, data cannot be customized or explored beyond the total population of a given county.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Issues related to the general public health with the intention of locating counties with greater public health needs.

County Health Rankings

University of Nebraska – Lincoln Center on Children, Families, and the Law

How to Access Source: <http://www.countyhealthrankings.org/>

Source Summary: A collection of public health data under the topics of length of life, quality of life, health behaviors, clinical care, social & economic factors, physical environment, and numerous other measures. Data are aggregated within these topic areas to give rankings, allowing for a quick comparison between counties.

Suggested Citation: County Health Rankings (year of data). Retrieved from <http://www.countyhealthrankings.org>.

- What is the format of the report? Links to PDF reports. The Housing Inventory Count is an Excel document.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how?
No. The point-in-time count reports include data on sub-populations.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Counts of the homeless population in Lincoln and the balance of the state.

Data USA

How to Access Source: <https://datausa.io/>

Source Summary: An array of data is combined into visually-appealing, community-level reports under the topics of economy, health & safety, diversity, education, and housing & living. Useful for a quick overview, but should generally be used as a starting point before going to the original sources cited or other sources. Sources summarized in Data USA include U.S. Census Data (American Community Survey), The Dartmouth Atlas of Health Care, County Health Rankings, Department of Education, and other data sources.

Suggested Citation: Data USA (year of data). Retrieved from <https://datausa.io>.

- What is the format of the report? Web-based reports.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Geographic regions can be compared. Once you have selected one geographic region (state, county, etc.), the “add comparison” option allows to compare to another geographic region.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Broad indicator data on the entire U.S. population.

HealthData.gov

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

How to Access Source: <https://www.healthdata.gov/>

Source Summary: Provides access to datasets, databases, and reports on a variety of health-specific topics, with some statewide and community-level reports available. Health topics include community, health, quality, Medicare, hospital, and inpatient. Data and reports are generally more applicable to academic researchers.

Suggested Citation: U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (year of data). HealthData.gov. Retrieved from <https://www.healthdata.gov/>.

- Additional notes on geographic scope: Nationwide data is most common, but state and community-level data can be found.
- What is the format of the report? Varies. Downloadable datasets, accessible databases, and formal reports.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Varies. Datasets and databases will be highly customizable.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Health-specific issues.

Healthy People 2030

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion

How to Access Source: <https://www.healthypeople.gov/>

Source Summary: A comprehensive source for a variety of data related to public health within 42 topic areas. Examples of topic areas include adolescent health; cancer; diabetes; environmental health; maternal, infant, and child health; mental health and mental disorders, physical activity, social determinants of health, substance abuse; and numerous other topics. Each topic area has several indicators with baseline and trend data, and a goal for the year 2030 (goals we set in 2020).

- Additional notes on geographic scope: All data indicators are for the entire nation. Many indicators have state-level data.
- What is the format of the report? Online data tables are retrieved by selecting indicator data under each topic.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Varies for each indicator. When available, state-level data and demographic breakdowns focusing on disparities, are available within each page of indicator data. Criteria for finding data on specific populations or states can be selected within the “Data Search” tab of the site.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Issues affecting the public health of the U.S. population.

Health Professions Tracking Service

University of Nebraska Medical Center, College of Public Health

How to Access Source: <https://www.unmc.edu/publichealth/hpts/news/reports-publications.html>

Source Summary: The most useful report on this site is “The Status of the Healthcare Workforce in the State of Nebraska”. This report displays the distribution and characteristics of healthcare professionals across the state. County-level data are located in several maps within the report as well as in tables in the appendix showing the availability of each type of health service.

Suggested Citation: University of Nebraska Medical Center, College of Public Health (year of data). The Status of the Healthcare Workforce in the State of Nebraska.

- What is the format of the report? Static report.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? No. However, there are numerous maps that show differences between counties in Nebraska on a wide range of issues related to the healthcare workforce.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? The availability of healthcare professionals and services across the state of Nebraska.

Institute for Community Alliances

(various data sources)

How to Access Source: <https://www.icalliances.org/omahacouncil-bluffs-reports>

Source Summary: Contains brief annual reports on the homeless population in Omaha and Council Bluffs. Types of reports include point-in-time counts, housing inventory, and system performance. The reports provide basic counts of the homeless population, including sheltered and unsheltered individuals. For the same type of homeless data on Lincoln and the rest of the state, see the Community Services Management Information System (page 8 in this directory).

- What is the format of the report? Links to PDF reports. The Housing Inventory Chart is an Excel document.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how?
No. The point-in-time count reports include data on sub-populations.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Counts of the homeless population in Omaha and Council Bluffs.

Kids Count Data Center

Annie E. Casey Foundation

How to Access Source: <https://datacenter.kidscount.org/>

See also: <https://kidscountnebraska.com> for additional statewide data specific to Nebraska

Source Summary: A broad, web-based platform that presents national, statewide, and county-level data on numerous indicators of well-being for children in the areas of demographics, economic well-being, education, family & community, health, safety & risky behaviors. It compiles data from the U.S. Census Bureau, Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, Nebraska Department of Education, and other state and federal data sources.

- Additional notes on geographic scope: Both national and state-specific data are provided, with considerable data available by county, city, or congressional district.
- What is the format of the report? Indicator data available online via the web-based platform.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Data are available by the geographic regions noted above. Beyond this, there are no options for customization. However, some indicators will provide some comparisons. Select different options within the “Characteristics” section of the platform.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Broad, well-being data on all children (general population).

My Tribal Area

U.S. Census Bureau

How to Access Source: <https://www.census.gov/tribal/>

Source Summary: This is the recommended source of Census data for Tribal Areas. Includes demographic, employment, housing, economic, and educational data from the American Community Survey for tribal areas. Data area accessed via a web-based platform.

Suggested Citation: U.S. Census Bureau (year of data). American Community Survey 5-Year Estimates. Retrieved from <https://www.census.gov/tribal/>

- What is the format of the report? Data tables are obtained online via a web-based platform.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how?
No. Data are available for each tribal area.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Broad demographic data on U.S. tribal areas.

National Center for Children in Poverty

Bank Street Graduate School of Education

How to Access Source: www.nccp.org

(recommend locating Nebraska data in the “Demographic Profiles” and “Early Childhood Profiles” sections of the “Data Tools” dropdown menu.)

Source Summary: National and state-level data related to demographics and early childhood. The most useful data related to Nebraska from this source are grouped under two main headings: (1) “Demographic Profiles” which focus on Census-type data related to low-income families and children (parental employment, parental education, race/ethnicity, parental nativity, and other similar data) and (2) “Early Childhood Profiles” which focus on a variety of topics related to early childhood and child well-being (health and development, early care and education, and parenting and economic supports).

Suggested Citation: National Center for Children in Poverty, Bank Street Graduate School of Education (year of data). Nebraska Demographic and Early Childhood Profiles. Retrieved from www.nccp.org

- What is the format of the report? The most useful data for Nebraska are static reports located in the “Demographic Profiles” and “Early Childhood Profiles” sections of the “Data Tools” dropdown menu. There is a “50-State Demographics Data Generator”. However, at the time of this update, Nebraska data are currently not showing here.
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? The “50-State Demographics Data Generator” allows for some customization of data and comparison to other states. However, as mentioned above, Nebraska data are currently not showing here.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Childhood poverty and well-being.

National Assessment of Education Progress (NAEP)

Institute of Education Sciences, National Center for Education Statistics

How to Access Source: <https://nces.ed.gov/nationsreportcard/>
(reports and data available in the “Publications and Newsroom” tab)

Source Summary: National and state-level scores on standardized assessments in math, reading, science, and writing for students in grades 4, 8, and 12. Other data on assessments in other areas and for other grades are also available with limited statewide availability. This source can be useful to get a broad picture of how Nebraska compares to other states in terms of educational achievement. However, the Nebraska Department of Education’s Education Profiles (see page 27 in this directory) will be more useful for most Nebraska Children’s purposes.

- What is the format of the report? Interactive web-based data maps. Datasets are also available for download (requires expertise to analyze).
- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Data readily available on the website cannot be manipulated beyond comparing states. Datasets can be downloaded which would allow for considerable customization.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Nationwide standardized assessment scores.

National Child Abuse and Neglect Data System (NCANDS)

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Children’s Bureau

How to Access Source: <http://ndacan.cornell.edu>

1. Click on datasets tab.
2. Near the top of the screen, there are two links for NCANDS: Child File and Agency File. Select the type of file you would like to download (see descriptions below).
3. Select the year of file.
4. After you have selected your dataset, click on the “Order Dataset” link and follow the instructions to register and download the dataset.

PDF reports available at:

<https://www.acf.hhs.gov/cb/research-data-technology/statistics-research/child-maltreatment>

Source Summary: The National Child Abuse and Neglect Data System (NCANDS) consists of information on child maltreatment reports to Child Protective Services (CPS) agencies. While participation is voluntary, all states are currently providing data to NCANDS. Topics of the data include demographic information about children and their perpetrators, types of maltreatment, report sources, dispositions/findings of investigations, and services provided, among others. Two data files are available for download. The Child File contains case-level data for each instance of abuse and neglect. The Agency File contains data on services, CPS staff, and other elements.

National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW)

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Office of Planning, Research & Evaluation

How to Access Source: <http://ndacan.cornell.edu>

1. Click on datasets tab.
2. Select NSCAW (there is a link near the top of the page).
3. There are two basic types of files: NSCAW I and NSCAW II (see descriptions below). Select the file you want to download.
4. After you have selected your dataset, click on the "Order Dataset" link and follow the instructions to register and download the dataset.

Source Summary: The National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW) is a nationally-representative, longitudinal survey on children who have been involved with the child welfare system due to maltreatment reports. The survey includes multiple respondents and data sources (children, parents and other caregivers, caseworkers, teachers, and administrative data). Topics include characteristics of children and families who come to the attention of child welfare systems, experiences of families (including services received) while involved with the child welfare system, outcomes for these children. NSCAW I followed children in CPS and long-term foster care from 1999/2000 to 2007. NSCAW II will follow children involved in child welfare investigations from 2008/2009 to 2022. NSCAW I collected data in five waves (all of which are available). Currently, Waves 1-3 are available for NSCAW II. The NSCAW II collected Wave 1 (baseline) in 2008-2009, Wave II in 2009-2011 (18 months after Wave I, and Wave III in 2011-2012 (18 months after Wave II).

National Survey of Children's Health (NSCH)

Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA)

How to Access Source: <http://www.childhealthdata.org/>

Datasets available for download at: <https://www.census.gov/data/datasets/2017/demo/nsch/nsch2017.html>

Source Summary: The National Survey of Children's Health (NSCH) collects information about children's health and well-being, demographic characteristics, and about their family, including socio-economic characteristics. The last administration occurred in 2016. State and nationwide data can be easily obtained from an online interactive data query system. A wide array of indicators is available on specific health topics. Often, the National Survey of Children's Health will contain a follow-on module that serves as a separate survey on a specific focus area. For example, in the 2007/2008 administration, the National Survey of Adoptive Parents (NASP) was administered to parents of adoptive children. In 2011/2012, the National Survey of Children in Nonparental Care (NSCNC) was used to gather data on children who were living apart from their parents.

- Can I customize the data (splice by geography, cross tab elements, etc.)? If so, how? Once a specific indicator is selected, a wide array of subgroups can be compared. However, use caution with small sample sizes.
- Additional notes on update frequency: Administrations occur around every five years. The most recent administration was in 2016. Previous administrations were 2005/2006 and 2011/2012.
- What is the topical focus of the dataset? Issues related to the general health and well-being of children under the age of 18. Includes a wide array of specific health indicators for children.

National Youth in Transition Database (NYTD)

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Children’s Bureau

How to Access Source: <http://ndacan.cornell.edu>

1. Click on datasets tab.
2. Select NYTD (there is a link near the top of the page).
3. There are two types of files: “Services” and “Outcomes” (see descriptions below). Select the file you want to download.
4. After you have selected your dataset, click on the “Order Dataset” link and follow the instructions to register and download the dataset.

Source Summary: The National Youth in Transition Database (NYTD) collects information on youth in foster care, including demographic information; services received; and well-being, financial, education, and independent living outcomes. States began collecting data in 2010, and the first data set was submitted in May 2011. Two types of datasets are available for download. The Services file provides demographic information on youth in foster care, education information, and the type of services that they have received. The Outcomes file provides information gathered from surveys examining issues related to well-being, financial and education outcomes, and the transition from foster care to independence. NYTD data are collected in waves, with Wave 1 conducted during the year of the youth’s 17th birthday, Wave 2 at age 19, and Wave 3 at age 21.
